

ABSTRACT

Thesis for the degree of Bachelor performed on "Improving the quality control of the enterprise (for example SE " Construction and installation management "SAD" ") contains 107 pages, 10 tables, 15 figures, 9 formulas 3 applications. The list of references includes 39 items.

The aim of the study is to develop recommendations to improve the system of quality control at the plant on the example of state enterprise "Construction and installation management "SAD"".

The object of the study is the formation of the system of quality control at SE "Construction and Installation Management "SAD"".

The subject of the study is to improve management quality control at SE "Construction and Installation Management" SAD "."

The following methods were used in this thesis to achieve this goal: graphic-analytical method (to study the competitiveness of enterprises), financial and economic analysis (to study the organizational and economic activities of enterprises), the comparative method (compare actual progress with data for previous periods); graphic (for visual presentation of research results).

Results of the study about the improvement of quality control to enterprise's can be used in practice of SE "Construction and Installation Management" SAD "" and other enterprises of the construction industry.

Developed in the thesis work activities improve the system of quality control at the plant were submitted to the employee Economic Planning Department, which was considered the possibility of practical use in future individual measures and proposals to improve competitiveness in the domestic market. The possible areas of further research can study other ways to improve the system of quality control in the company.

Keywords: quality management system standards of ISO, product quality, management.