

Academic discipline "Personnel Management" refers to the cycle of professional and practical training.

The program provides for the acquisition of theoretical and practical skills of management personnel at the enterprises of different ownership forms specific to their functioning in the market conditions.

The subject of the discipline is the general laws, principles of formation, functioning and development of the personnel management system; management relations.

The purpose of teaching "Human Resource Management" - to acquaint students with the basic objectives and content of personnel management, the literature concerning the theory and practice of personnel work in enterprises, as well as help them to work independently to study the problems of training, retraining and advanced training of personnel of the enterprise, problems personnel management integrated system of targeting the staff of the organization to ensure the effective operation of the team and satisfaction with the work.