

Abstract discipline "Finance, money and credit"

(Coursework)

According to the curriculum of the discipline "Finance, money and credit" involves writing a term paper, which will contribute its in-depth study, further systematization, expansion and consolidation of the knowledge gained. The work covers a number of main sections of the course and allows the student to discover the creativity in the integrated approach to the task.

Coursework as an important form of learning process is designed to train future professional self-searching, organizing, analyzing and summarizing information sources (books, textbooks, publications in periodicals, statistical and reporting materials regulations) that characterize the financial processes in different levels of management in the state (macro) and in various fields of business entities (macro).

Coursework shows how knowledge acquired by students in the study course "Finances, money and credit" is a deep and fundamental; describes the ability of students to explore their own tasks on a chosen topic.

The purpose of writing a term paper is to develop students' abilities in independent searching, organizing, analyzing and summarizing information sources (books, textbooks, publications in periodicals, statistical and reporting materials regulations) that characterize the financial sector management.