

Abstract to credit module "International Banking"

The purpose of the credit module is the formation of students' abilities:

- Analysis methods to minimize risks in the banking business;
- Calculation of interest on deposit;
- Decide on the effectiveness and appropriateness of credit resources for the given conditions.
- Practically apply their skills in analyzing the advantages and disadvantages of varieties payment transactions;
- Assess the attractiveness of investment banking

The main tasks of the loan unit.

According to the requirements of the program of the course students after mastering credit module should demonstrate the following learning outcomes:

knowledge:

- basis of international banking;
- implementation of the principles of international payments;
- the nature and value of foreign exchange transactions in international payments;
- the nature and varieties of credit and deposit operations in international financial markets;
- mechanism for implementing major forms of payment in international banking.

the ability to:

- analysis of the status and dynamics of the financial markets;
- analysis of promising investment operations
- management of currency, interest and credit risks;
- analysis of the advantages and disadvantages of certain forms of international payments and choosing the most optimal form for the given conditions.

experience:

- analysis of conditions for obtaining loan funds and calculating the cost of their involvement;
- calculation of interest on deposit;
- documentation for payment transactions in the international banking;
- implementation of foreign exchange transactions on a virtual system of trading "Metatreyder-4".